When shopping for your diamond hoop earrings, you will notice the difference in color settings. The choice of color setting you choose is your decision to make. Most women make this decision based on what the rest of their jewelry they already own, is set in. Some women just prefer a certain color setting over the rest. None the less, I am sure you will choose the perfect color of setting, for your diamond hoop earrings.

Diamond hoop earrings, often come in different sizes. Of course there is the size of the diamond, and the size of the hoop. In this case I am referring to the size of the hoop. Some larger hoops may be a little heavier than others. This may make a difference in the size of the diamond hoop earrings, that you purchase. You want to choose a hoop size that is comfortable to you, and that does not feel heavy on your ear.

When choosing the diamond size, for your diamond hoop earrings, you will notice the diamonds do come in a variety of sizes. Diamonds are sold by weight, and a heavier diamond will cost you more money. The total carat weight of the diamonds is for the total weight in the pair. Not the separate earrings. This is always a good thing to remember when shopping for diamond hoop earrings.
